

Dough Boss demo — walkthrough script

How to run the demo in the meeting · 23 Jun 2026

Before you start: have the demo open and ready — <https://edagher92-coder.github.io/DOUGHBOSSV2/> — ideally on a phone (it's built mobile-first) and a laptop. Keep the one-page cheat-sheet next to you. Let the client tap around themselves; you're guiding, not presenting.

1 · Open & first impression

About / landing page

SHOW Open the link (lands on the About page). Let it load; scroll slowly.

SAY "This is the new direction — clean black-and-white, your story up front, built to pull people in and send them to the menu."

ASK Does the overall look and feel match your vision? Is the story ("since 2014 / family recipes") accurate?

2 · The menu

Menu — browse & order

SHOW Go to Menu. Scroll the sections; tap a category chip; point out the food photos; tap "Add" on an item so the floating cart appears.

SAY "Customers browse by section — Manoush, Bites, Sweets, Drinks — with photos, and can build an order. This is how your food is shown off."

ASK Is this how you want the menu presented? (Then hand over the menu spreadsheet — we need your real items, prices and descriptions to fill it.)

3 · Locations

Your three shops

SHOW Go to Locations — the three shops with hours, tap-to-call numbers and Open-in-Maps.

SAY "Each shop has its address, opening hours, a tap-to-call button and a Maps link."

ASK Are the address, hours and phone right for each shop? Are all three open? Pickup and/or delivery — and which areas?

4 · Look, navigation & social

Across the site

SHOW Show the top menu and the footer (links out to socials). Resize / open on a phone to show it's mobile-friendly.

SAY "It works on mobile, and the footer links to your socials."

ASK Confirm the black-and-white look. Confirm the pages you want. What are your Dough Boss handles (IG / FB / TikTok)?

A note on Snow Boss & ordering

- There's a Snow Boss page in the demo — that's a separate partnership conversation, so skip it today (or just note it's coming).

- The cart/checkout is a demo — orders & payments aren't live. Keep ordering to the high-level question: menu/brochure now, or take orders at launch?

Close the meeting by capturing

- Yes/no on direction — are we building the real site like this?
- A go-live date and who signs off on your side.
- What they'll send: the menu spreadsheet (filled), logo files, photos, confirmed shop details, social handles.
- Access to WordPress/hosting, domain/DNS, socials & Google Business — and the go-ahead to rebuild and take it live (we back up first).
